Proclamation, City of Oakland

The City of Oakland ratified their Local Proclamation of Emergency, (Initial 12/06/16) on 12/08/16 and provided it to Cal OES on 12/09/16. This proclamation is for the Warehouse fire that occurred on 12/02/16.

Cal OES INLAND REGION

Minor Flooding Forecast for the Truckee River, Placer and Nevada Counties 12/10/16

The Truckee River is forecast to exceed Flood Stage on 12/10/16 at 1300 hours. The river is forecast to peak around 1700 hours at 5.8 feet and drop below flood stage by 0100 hours on 12/11/16.

- The Flood Operations Center (FOC) will remain at Duty Officer Monitor Status and will process requests as needed.
- Per the Cal OES Inland Region Duty Officer (IDO):
 - The particular area of concern straddles both Placer and Nevada Counties. (Starts in Placer- ends in Nevada).
 - Nevada County is coordinating closely with Truckee PD and Fire. No major issues expected but they will be actively monitoring through the weekend.
 - Placer County used several social media outlets including Twitter, Facebook and Nextdoor.com for public service messaging about dangers of rising water and recommendations to keep family and pets safe.
 - A Placer-Alert message was sent exclusively to Truckee Flood Prone Zone residents to remind them to stay tuned to local news and emergency notifications. The notice went to 421 phone lines (about 200 homes).
 - Sand bag locations are positioned near areas at risk.
 - The IDO will stay in contact with both Placer and Nevada Counties and will provide updates as needed.

Potential impacts:

- Moderate flooding from Bear Creek in the Alpine Meadows area to Truckee. Flooding of yards and basements of low-lying homes along river, some private bridges impacted.

Cal OES SOUTHERN REGION

- Nothing Significant to Report.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION

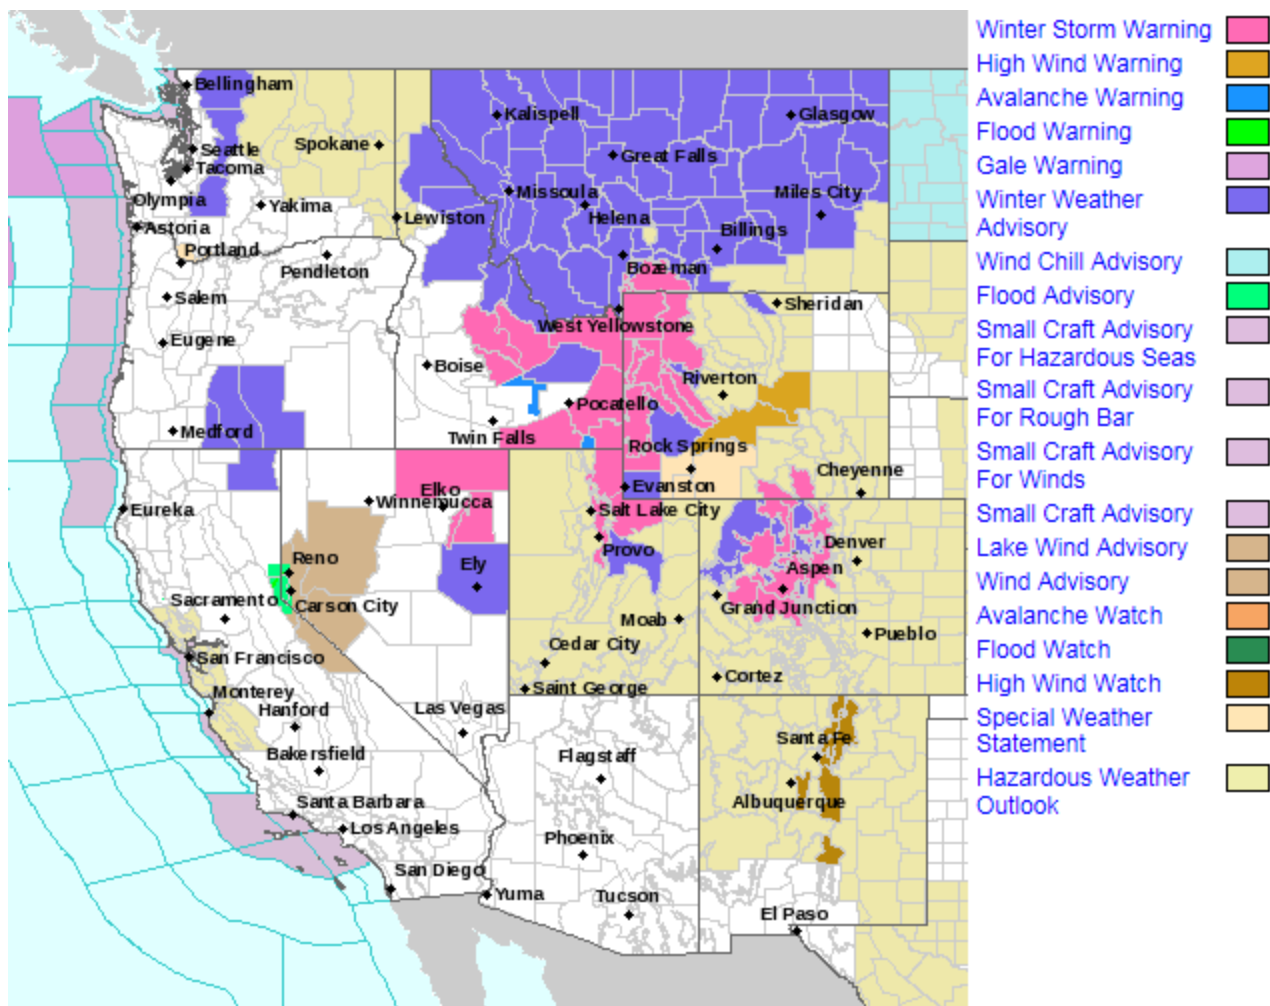

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

A very moist plume of Pacific moisture is bringing widespread precipitation to the area. The most favorable area for precipitation is over the northern Sierra, where rates of around a half inch an hour are expected this morning and into the afternoon. This could bring totals of around 4 inches there by early evening, with around 1 to 3 inches in the foothills, and the Valley seeing around an additional half inch today. Valley precipitation will wind down this evening as the moisture plume shifts southward and drier air moves in. Snow levels with this warm event are quite high this morning, over 9000 feet. This will keep snow accumulation from being an issue except over high peaks today. Pass levels could see some accumulating snow this evening as snow levels drop, but precipitation will be winding down at that point. There could be a few inches of snow at locations such as Donner Pass on I80 and Echo Summit on Highway 50.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

A series of weak disturbances will continue to bring periods of light rain to the area through Sunday morning. Expect another round of light showers midweek for the Central Coast, becoming more potent and widespread later in the week.
